Treating Complex Traumatic Stress Disorders in Adults SECOND EDITION

Scientific Foundations and Therapeutic Models

Edited by Julian D. Ford, PhD, ABPP and Christine A. Courtois, PhD, ABPP

Foreword by Judith Lewis Herman, MD

Afterword by Bessel A. van der Kolk, MD

“An unparalleled contribution to the existing literature on assessment and intervention with survivors of complex trauma....Courtois and Ford have assembled an impressive volume of empirically informed assessment and treatment approaches that ‘honor and support the resilience of trauma survivors as they carry on with their lives and enrich the lives of their families and communities.’”

— Trauma Psychology Newsletter (on the first edition)

This authoritative reference on complex traumatic stress disorders (CTSDs) and their assessment and treatment has now been significantly revised with more than 75% new material reflecting a decade of advances in the field. Leading experts delve into ways to understand, engage, assess, and treat adults with complex trauma histories, whose symptoms often include but may go well beyond those of posttraumatic stress disorder. The volume presents cutting-edge theory and research on CTSDs, considers diagnostic controversies, and identifies core elements of effective, culturally responsive treatment. Established and emerging therapies specifically tailored to this population are described and illustrated with vivid case examples. Other highlights are chapters on transtheoretical treatment, the crucial role of professionalism and training, and recognizing and managing vicarious traumatization.
